1.5 Mandatory OEM Hardware / Infrastructure Sizing for 1,000 Concurrent Users

The OEM shall be responsible for sizing and certifying the complete hardware/virtual infrastructure required for the proposed solution for 1,000 concurrent users. The required infrastructure shall be provisioned by AMTRON at the Assam State Data Centre and shall not form part of the bidder's commercial quote. The OEM-signed sizing and architecture document shall form part of the Technical Bid. Any infrastructure dependency required to achieve the committed capacity that is not disclosed in the OEM-certified sizing shall not subsequently be cited as a reason for non-performance or non-compliance.

- Where the proposed product requires a hardware-appliance form factor, the OEM shall state the recommended appliance model, quantity, CPU, RAM, storage, network interfaces, power redundancy and HA topology for AMTRON's infrastructure planning. No hardware/appliance price shall be included in the Financial BOQ unless AMTRON expressly includes such supply as a separate tender item.
- For virtual appliance/software deployment: state number of VMs, vCPU per VM, RAM per VM, storage per VM, NIC requirements, supported hypervisor requirements and HA topology.
- State whether load balancer, MFA server, database, management server, reporting server, connector/gateway or any other infrastructure/software dependency is required. All such dependencies shall be clearly identified in the OEM-certified sizing. AMTRON shall provision the required hardware/VM infrastructure resources. All bidder/OEM software licences required for the solution shall be perpetual and shall be included in the applicable commercial rate.
- State expected concurrent-user capacity of each node/appliance and aggregate capacity of the proposed HA architecture.
- Sizing shall consider TLS encryption, authentication/MFA, logging, policy enforcement, eOffice access and all enabled mandatory features under normal production load.
- OEM shall certify that the proposed sizing supports at least 1,000 simultaneous active user sessions without feature restriction and is suitable for 24x7 production deployment.
